Children with complex, life-threatening and life-limiting illnesses need specialised care to ensure that their pain and other distressing symptoms are expertly controlled and their social, emotional, spiritual, educational and developmental needs are met. Just like a hat provides protection, members of the children's palliative care team provide the best possible support for these children and for all affected family members. And, in many instances, these professionals need to 'wear many hats' to ensure the child's many needs are met. We know that we can't always add days to their life, but we can significantly improve their quality of life.

Please help us to help them.
